Copyright and Permissions

The Licensed Materials, published by The Company of Biologists Limited are protected by copyright. Individual articles are published under an exclusive license obtained by The Company of Biologists from the authors of such articles, who retain copyright. Such authors are free to reproduce material from their articles in any printed book (including thesis) of which they are authors.

Unless otherwise permitted by the Licence or this Copyright Policy, all parties must obtain prior written permission from The Company of Biologists before reproducing (in any form), compiling, storing, distributing, transmitting, displaying, broadcasting or using automated data mining techniques, downloading programs or devices in relation to the Licensed Materials (or any part thereof); and such permission may be sought by accessing the Copyright Clearance Centre.

Nothing set out here affects any rights or obligations that you may have under the Copyright Designs and Patents Act 1988 in the UK or any equivalent fair dealing or fair use provisions in other jurisdictions.

Article reproduction – Academic or Educational Use

The Company of Biologists allows librarians or staff of the Licensee* to make multiple paper and electronic copies of single articles which are published by the Company without charge, provided that the following conditions are met:

- Copying is done by a member of staff of the university
- Copying is for distribution, e.g. classroom use, course packs, and course reserves without profit to student members of that institution for educational purposes only
- Copying is from the original article

Caching. Licensee and Authorized Users may make local digital copies of the Licensed Materials in order to ensure efficient use by Authorized Users by appropriate browser or other software. For the avoidance of doubt, the cached copy is not a derivative work.

The Company of Biologists allows readers* to copy, download and print out, for private study, single articles which are published by The Company of Biologists, without permission and without charge beyond the actual cost of copying, provided the copying is done by the person requiring its use or by an employee of the institution to which he/she belongs. Electronic copies must keep the article in its original form and any extracts of articles must be retyped verbatim. They may not be placed on the public internet or linked to or from an external or third party website. All articles and extracts of articles must include the identity of the author, the title of the work and journal from which it is extracted.

Subject to the terms of the Licence, and subject to the paragraph below, the Licensee may incorporate links to Licensed Materials in Electronic Reserves for the use by Authorised Users in the course of instruction at the Licensee's institution, but not for Commercial Use.

- In Electronic Reserves the use is conditional upon employing persistent links to the Licensed Materials so that usage is registered on The Company of Biologists' online platform each time a student views the work on reserve. Each link shall carry appropriate acknowledgement of the source, listing title and author of the extract, title and author of the work, and the publisher as The Company of Biologists. Links shall be deleted by the Licensee when they are no longer used for such purpose.
- "Electronic Reserves" means a collection of links to Licensed Materials (e.g. journal articles) stored on the Secure Network by the Licensee for use by students in connection with specific courses of instruction offered by the Licensee to its students.

*Note that where The Company of Biologists reproduces any material with the permission of other publishers, you must seek permission from the copyright holder before using such material in accordance with this section.

Except as expressly provided for under this Copyright Policy all copyright and other rights of The Company of Biologists in and to the Licensed Materials are reserved.

USAGE RESTRICTIONS Inter-library lending

The Licensed Materials may not be used for any fee-for-service, systematic supply or distribution of the Journals in any form or any similar commercial activity to anyone other than an Authorised User.

Subject to the terms of this Licence, the Licensee is permitted to supply to the user of another library predominantly in the same country as the Licensee for non-commercial use (whether by post, fax or secure intermediate electronic transmission, using Ariel or its equivalent, whereby the electronic file is deleted immediately after printing), for the purposes of research or private study, a single copy of an electronic original of an individual article forming part of the Licensed Material, subject to the following limitations:

- Licensee may fulfil occasional requests only from another library;
- For requests for copying beyond the scope of the paragraphs above, the requesting library must seek permission from The Company of Biologists and may make a request for permission directly to The Company of Biologists by sending an email to permissions@biologists.com.

If the Licensee is located in the US, the Licensee agrees to fulfil such requests in accordance with guidelines developed from time to time by the National Commission on New technological Uses of Copyright Works (CONTU guidelines).

Redistribution of the Licensed Materials to non-authorised users in electronic or digital form is not permitted unless the prior written consent of The Company of Biologists has been obtained.

Digital preservation

As a HighWire Press affiliated publisher, The Company of Biologists supports the LOCKSS program and the CLOCKSS program, a multi-institutional, multi-publisher initiative to create a permanent web publishing and access system (www.lockss.org and www.clockss.org).

In the event the Company of Biologists discontinues or changes the terms of its participation in the above third-party archiving service, the Company of Biologists shall notify the Licensee in advance, and shall in good faith seek to establish alternative arrangements for trusted archiving and perpetual access to the Licensed Materials.

Disclaimers

Whilst The Company of Biologists has taken care to ensure that the information, data and other contents of the Licensed Materials are error free and up to date as at the time of writing or publishing, The Company of Biologists gives no warranties (express or implied) regarding the accuracy, completeness relevance or applicability of any of the Licensed Materials.
